MANAGER'S CORNERLAKES, LOCKS & OTHER UPDATES

Lakes - In the last couple of weeks I have had quite a few complaints about the condition of the lakes. The lakes in Majestic Isles are being treated for algae by Palm Beach Aquatics. This is an environmental issue, and the dry weather we are having is complicating the problem. Management will continue to monitor P.B. Aquatics' visits and keep you updated.

Locks – As most of you know, the front door lock to the clubhouse has been changed because the old lock was too cumbersome to operate. . Now, to get into the clubhouse, you use the same key you used before, put the key in the lock located on the wall to the right of the door, turn the key to the right, take the key out of the lock, and pull the door. This can all be done with the same hand, and you have 20 seconds in which to open the door. To exit the clubhouse, you just push the door; you no longer have to push the silver bar on the door to exit. There is a motion sensor above the door. In the event you come toward the door at a sharp angle, too slowly, or have attended so many of our new aerobics classes that you're now so skinny that the motion sensor doesn't detect you, push the green button to the left of the door.

Website - We are pleased to announce the official launch of the new Majestic Isles website! The address is www.MajesticIslesHOA.com. If you previously gave your email address to the management office, then you should have received an email about the website. The email contains detailed directions for entering the information required to set up your account. To get started, go to the website and click on the "New Account" button located at the top right corner of the screen, and follow the directions in the email. This is our new official site for owners, residents, and prospective buyers and tenants. The website provides some new, cost saving features that will help the community save on mailing and postage expenses, and will be a living application that will adapt to the changing needs of the community. It will be updated regularly with timely, helpful information as well as new features.

A copy of the registration form appears on the opposite page. If you have questions about this process, you can call the PBSO Alarm Unit at (561) 688-3695.

Another Good Book to Check Out TERRORIST by John Updike

By Stan Kaish

John Updike is among the most critically acclaimed American writers and the four Rabbit Angstrom books are the most famous of his novels. I thought I would take a look and share the riches with you. I read Rabbit, Run, the first in the series but after some consideration, I have decided not to burden you with it. I found it an elaborately written, as expected, but pretty depressing story about a pretty dull, aging high school athlete, Harry "Rabbit" Angstrom who never got over his glory years. There is more, of course: a failed marriage, a drunken wife, a dead baby, a pregnant prostitute, regrets over missed opportunities and never ending optimism that they are not missed forever. As one reviewer put it, Updike gives us "shrewd insight into the sorrows, frustrations, and banality of American life." I figured most of us already have enough of all three, so, I decided to move on to something of Updike's that was more recent and sounded more digestible: Terrorist, published in 2006. Reviewers say this one "garnered media attention but little critical praise." Sounds like our kind of book.

The story is set in the inner city of what's called New Providence, USA, but really sounds like Newark, New Jersey. Industry has left. So too has much of the white population. The high school student body is largely populated by people of color: all colors but white. Among them is eighteen year old Ahmad Ashmawy Mulloy, son of an Irish-American mother and Egyptian father who disappeared when Ahmad was three. Ahmad has been pretty much left to raise himself and has turned to Islam, under the guidance of his teacher and surrogate father, Shaikh Rashid. On the eve of his high school graduation, Ahmad is scheduled for an exit interview with guidance counselor, Jack Levy, a left over relic at the school from its time of catering to a more prosperous middle class. Levy is taken with the boy who speaks with great formality and self-assurance, is neatly dressed in a crisp white shirt, has been on the school track team and earned high grades. But he is taken aback when he learns that Ahmad has switched to the vocational curricular track at the behest of his advisor, Shaikh Rashid and is studying for the over the road, truck drivers examination.

So there we are, a well-meaning Jewish guidance counselor, a boy, verging on manhood, tightly focused on the Qur'an and the dictates of Allah as interpreted by his doctrinaire Iman, Shaikh Rashid. Throw in Levy's dull, fat, inattentive wife, Ahmad's aging, but still attractive (at least to Jack Levy) Irish mother, a truck driving job at a Yemenite owned furniture store arranged for Ahmad by the Iman , the racial and sexual tensions of the inner city, and you have a pretty good setting for a book called Terrorist. You'll like it. I did.

Reel Impressions MY BIG FAT GREEK WEDDING 2

By Edye Frankel

Those of us who saw "My Big Fat Greek Wedding" (1) were excited to see the coming of the sequel, since we had enjoyed the first one so much, and assumed that we would have an equally good time at the "second" wedding.

Toula (the bride of the first wedding) is having a very hard time with parenting and marriage in general. Her own marriage has lost some of its "spark" and she is also dealing with a rebellious daughter who clashes with Greek traditions (like mother, like daughter). Then, when a shocking family secret surfaces, the entire Portokalos clan make plans to come together for an even bigger wedding than the first one.

Well, you won't be completely disappointed. There were a few moments that were a bit overdone and repetitions from the first movie, but overall it was lots of fun. There were some good, funny, and touching lines and situations that many of us would be able to identify with and also laugh about.

This was not fabulous movie making, but was definitely a "feel good" movie. The acting was good and I think you will enjoy it as I did.

Gardening in the Isles

By Stan Davidson

The hot weather will soon be upon us and I am often asked when should we water our landscape? Many people living in south Florida and those who just moved here are not familiar with Florida plants and their growing conditions. The problem is further complicated by the district's restricted water usage and the wide variety of soil types.

The variables such as different plant species, watering requirements, soil types, time of the year, plant exposure locations, and the weather conditions determine when and how much plants should be watered. Provided below are some general guidelines to consider when watering your plants. Considering all of the above variables, it is difficult to offer specific watering procedures.

Obviously you should irrigate only when a plant requires water. During the summer, established plants need no water for two to three days after a heavy rainfall or from an irrigation system that provides at least one inch of water a week. In the winter you can wait longer.

Many of our summer plants such as coleus, caladiums, wax begonias, and sun impatiens demonstrate lack of water by wilting. If they show signs of wilting into the evening, water them the following morning. Container plants may require daily watering, if not twice a day in 90-degree heat.

Landscape bedding plants and lawns should be watered early in the morning when wind and temperature levels are generally lower. Mid-day and during the afternoon usually results in increased water loss due to evaporation. Watering at night is not advised, since the plant foliage will remain moist and is more susceptible to fungal diseases.

When watering, soak the soil thoroughly. Frequent light sprinkling wastes water and does little to satisfy the water requirements of a plant growing in hot dry soil. For container plants, water until the water comes out from the bottom drainage holes.

You can save water by following the above guidelines and help conserve our most precious resource in Palm Beach County!

Majestic Isles complies with current local and district water regulations, which vary with drought conditions. Irrigation in Palm Beach County is allowed only on certain days with specific watering hours. For those who are hand watering new plantings, it is a good idea to check local weather reports for rain forecasts prior to watering. During and after torrential rainfall the irrigation systems in the community are turned off.

As you water your plants, consider these interesting facts about water provided by "Random Facts:"

- Roughly 70 percent of an adult's body is made of water.
- A healthy person can drink about 3 gallons of water per day.
- Somewhere around 70 percent of the earth's surface is covered with water; this amounts to some 326 million cubic miles of water.
- The United States uses about 346,000 million gallons of fresh water every day.
- In the United States, nearly 80 percent of its water is used for irrigation and hydroelectric power.

Check the health of your plants often. As the philosopher Yogi Berra once said, "You can see a lot by just looking!"

Modern Times

By Phyllis M. Cohen

I was trying to watch the news the other night, at least that crawl on the bottom of the screen that actually tells you what is happening... war, famine, earthquake... while tuning out, as much as possible, the talking heads that were blathering on about their elections predictions, when I somehow caught the tail end of a story. Someone had developed a new app that, after computing your waistline, would lock the refrigerator door if you showed an increase in girth.

Now you might think I might discount that story, but we all have learned that changes in technology and science happen so unexpectedly that you have to suspend belief to take in all of the new discoveries and inventions. After all, when Mog struck two rocks together and produced a spark, he undoubtedly turned to Gog and said, "Hey, I produced fire from two stones." And Wilbur, running down the field pushing an early plane, must have been screaming, "Run faster, Orville and we'll get this bucket of bolts off the ground."

So, strange as the story sounded, it struck me as being plausible. After all, there is supposed to be a car fitted out with a breathalyzer device that requires you to breathe in and have your alcohol level tested before you turn on the engine. For those who don't know, an app is a program you can download on your smart phone that can enable you to do, depending upon the program, any one of a million things, from finding your lost telephone to depositing checks at your bank, etc.

But since I am not a politician running for office, just saying something doesn't make it true, so I decided to do some fact checking about this latest app to make sure that I understood what I had thought I had heard. Wow, turns out there are lots of apps to track your health and fitness, count your calories, record your daily exercise routines and measure your blood pressure, weight and waistline.

And yes, there are locks for refrigerators, too. Amazon displayed a number of locks that enabled you to lock the doors of your fridge, all of them using a hasp and lock and key combo or some strong adhesive so that you could keep your teenager or toddlers or roommate or borrowing neighbor away from your stash of ice cream or beer or cheesecake. None of them were operated by a computer program. (There were hundreds of reviews of these products that made interesting reading, including reviews asking for such devices for their washing machines and dryers or other devices to prevent unwanted use of them.) Years ago, my son and his wife baby-proofed their house with child safety locks on the oven and the toilet seat so baby would not get hurt. Of course, unthinking grandma on a visit broke them when she opened the oven or dashed to use the bathroom. The new locks appear to be superior.

But the concept of an app that tracked your waistline size and then locked you out of your fridge struck me as being inherently flawed. Did you have to buy a new fridge, like a bank vault, with a sort of timer on it that was linked to a waist monitor that measured your size? Sort of like the ankle monitor that criminals out on bail wear? And once locked, how could you open it, say, to get the baby's formula, or kale for your healthy salad? Did you have to swap your waist monitor with your skinny size zero neighbor to get the lock to reset and open?

Finally, if the device was intended as a weight losing solution, I suspected that even more problems would present themselves. After all, any food junkie knows not to hide all their goodies in one spot. The refrigerator might be off limits, but there was always the laundry basket that could hide a giant-sized box of double-stuffed Oreos, the garage that sheltered bags of Doritos and the floor of the car, where, in desperation, you could salvage some forgotten Hershey's kisses. And don't forget, what your smart phone could deny you, it could also provide. You undoubtedly have Dominos and the local Chinese restaurant on speed dial.

More worrisome, are there even more sinister apps waiting to be introduced? One that compares current selfies to a picture of a svelte you and locks your fridge door or administers electric shocks if you go over your desired weight?

As long as Google doesn't decide to do an app that wires your jaw shut when you eat too much, I guess we are still safe. Wait; don't send that suggestion to them!

Technology: Bah Humbug

By Liz Hopwood

Our children and grandchildren have just left to return to Colorado. We love them and our Floridian villa, but it gets a little cramped with 7 people living in this defined space for a full week. Besides my standard grandparental observations of height, weight, overall appearance and happiness, we have had to deal with the technology obsession.

I really don't hate technology . . . just the technology post 1965, the year I graduated from high school. There is nothing wrong with a land wired telephone, a normal sized TV set, stove, refrigerator and washing machine. That's about it! I do not see the need for the intimidating, unapproachable computer technology in today's cars. I remember learning to drive a stick shift; everyone drove a stick shift or they rode a bicycle. Our homes were not air-conditioned, and it never crossed my mind that a car could be.

The tech revolution in autos reminds me that a former colleague had her car keys stolen; she found them on the floor of her car. She was sure the only reason the unidentified teenager had not taken the car joy riding was because the car was a stick shift! Although I am not excited about all the new car technology, I can see the merits because the roads would be much safer. Driverless cars would allow teens and brainless adults to text and look at the internet without endangering others. I guess many of my unenthusiastic views about technology have much to do with my childhood and a longing for a much simpler time.

I grew up in downtown Atlanta in the 1950s when the Health Department allowed chickens in the back yard; there was no airport and Atlanta was the hub of nothing. I remember my grandmother swinging a mean ax at those scattering chickens. The awful smell of plucking wet feathers lingers in my olfactory memory to this day. My grandmother was a little girl during the Civil War, but she remembered it. I often wondered what she would have done to the invading Union forces had she been big enough to swing that ax at them. She visited us rarely since she had to ride the train about 60 miles into Atlanta. My maternal grandmother survived the Civil War, two world wars, the depression, a hard life working a farm, and the death of several children while raising 9 others. She looked ancient to me from the very beginning, and unapproachable. In truth, she had an aura of hardness and bitterness no child could understand. But I digress.

I remember clearly the day a door-to-door Southern Bell representative asked my father if he would like to have a telephone extension. My father inquired, "What for?" He came back into the house laughing, saying that he had never heard of anything so ridiculous. "Why would anyone ever want a telephone extension in the bedroom?" With three teenagers in the house, my father had a steadfast rule: two minutes on the phone, and that's it. He did not ask you to get off the phone or issue a warning. He gave an intimidating look, removed the receiver from your hand and hung up for you. His philosophy was drilled into all of us: "If you need to talk more than two minutes, you need to sit down and write a letter." To this day I hate talking on the phone.

Which brings me to my current dilemma with my beloved grandchildren: the 17- and 15-year-olds each have a cell phone sprouting from their hands. Nothing is more important than the location of this device, including their money and wallets. They are always checking it and taking "selfies" making strange, contorted facial poses with tongues hanging out, hundreds of selfies to be posted on social media. They talk about Facebook, Twitter and Instagram, and are constantly checking to see what someone said about them, or how many "likes" they have. To be clear, I don't care where my friends are going, with or without me; I don't care what anyone is saying about me or someone else, and would never expend the energy to check that information on any device. One granddaughter told me that she feels good when she gets a lot of likes. Imagine. She feels good getting feedback from total strangers. I simply do not understand that.

I only bought a cell phone a few years ago, which I use primarily to locate my husband while shopping. My granddaughters laugh at my Walmart Tracfone and the lack of apps. I don't want music or pictures on it, and no one can leave a message because I do not want to hear from anyone at anytime. If you want me, you had better call on the land line for a conversation lasting well under two minutes! Regrettably, I was forced to learn to text about a year ago by my granddaughters who can talk a text into their phones. Rapidly changing technology has changed my comfortable world and in many ways I feel lost. Bah Humbug!

INVESTORS DISCUSSION GROUP

By Bill Harris, facilitator

Al Silverman, our previous and original facilitator first introduced the 3-6-9 investing mix method to us in 2014. In principal, it allows investors, based on their individual income needs, to select a personal mix of low ($\leq 3\%$) to high ($\geq 9\%$) yield, dividend-paying stocks or other equities designed to achieve their requisite income goals. Needless to say, portfolios more heavily weighted in higher yield equities would be riskier than those weighted in lower yield equities. [

High-yield portfolios, took a big “hit” last year and into February 2016. Such portfolios may have lost 20% or more of their value as the price of a barrel of oil plummeted, amidst fears of the Fed’s eventual short-term interest rate hike. Such portfolios, heavily weighted in high-yield energy master-limited-partnerships (MLPs) or mortgage real estate investment trusts (REITs) not only lost considerable value, but also many lost their ability to maintain a high income stream for their investors when equities they held either cut or even suspended their dividends.

Its validity in question, now might be the time to revisit the 3-6-9 investment mix method, to tweak it a bit and put it in tune with today’s market parameters. It does work but times do change. If you have such a portfolio, consider reapportioning it, as to the equities it holds and to its high-, low- dividend yield mix.

At our April 11 meeting we discussed this income method and considered safeguards we could use to shield it from external factors. We investigated stock screeners and how they can be used to pick equities based not only on percent dividend yield, but also on fundamental valuation metrics. You can screen for stocks and other equities for free at most major brokerage web sites. Just select your requisite dividend yield, the optimum P/E and PEG ratio, earnings and dividend growth criteria we have discussed and cash flow criteria we will discuss, apply your appropriate range filters, then sit back and watch the computer screen illuminate instantaneously with the 20 or so names that are screened from the thousands of equities in the market that match your input parameters.

It’s that easy. I handed out the results of two Fidelity stock screens I had completed just the previous day.

One was for equities with dividend yields of 5% or greater, another for those with yields between 1.0 and 4.99%. From 2384 medium- and high-yield equities, Fidelity’s stock screeners picked five equities with yields $> 9\%$ and matched 17 more with yields from 5 to 8.99%. A second run, this one screening for equities with $< 5\%$ dividend yields produced 26 results.

I consider these 48 equities to statistically be the “best of the best.” The growth filters for the $> 5\%$ dividend yield scan include projected 5% or greater growth in earnings per share (eps) this year relative to last and relative to next year, as well as a forward 3-5 year eps growth rate $\geq 6.4\%$. For the $< 5\%$ dividend yield scan, the growth filters were raised respectively to $\geq 7.43\%$, $> 14\%$ and $\geq 11.2\%$, the market medians.

The handouts given to the group listed the 48 equities only as stock symbols, no names, within three dividend yield class columns (low-, medium-, high-yield). Missing were several that I had expected to find e.g. Apple and Verizon, which didn’t meet the earnings growth filters, and AT&T which missed on the PEG ratio. The group recognized the cruise ship stocks CCL and RCL, the hotels HLT and MAR and the tech company AMAT. I pointed out that my portfolios held the biotech ABBV. Another group member said he’s owned HEP, a 6.82% dividend yield energy MLP, for quite a while. He informed us of its share price history. Using my iPad, I showed the group how to bring up bar graphs depicting HEP’s quarterly dividend and earnings growth on Fidelity’s web site. As for all those other stock symbols, well that’s the Investors Discussion Group’s homework. What companies do they represent? Do you like any?

Next Meeting May 9:

We will further discuss the 3-6-9-income mix investment method, act on your stock pick consensus and apply cash flow analysis. To quote several of our members, “Maybe we can build our own mutual fund.” If you weren’t there April 11 and want the handout, E-mail me at gedoc11@me.com.

Disclaimer: Opinions expressed above are those of the facilitator alone. He neither recommends nor disparages the purchase or sale of any stock or other equity mentioned above by name or by symbol. You should not invest in any equity without first doing your own research and conducting an independent due diligence investigation.

My mom is going to see Mickey Mouse next week, and I'll be with Aunt Audrey and my friend Lacey. That will be fun.

The weather is getting very warm!

I know that means many of my friends will be going to their other homes. I'll miss them, but hope they will return in the fall. It gets very quiet when my mom and I walk around. I'll just have to make some new friends.

I'm sure many of you have had some interesting experiences with your pets, so why not share them with us. We can have a column in the newsletter with your favorite stories. Contact Ellin, on the newsletter staff at 740-9050 or my mom, Marge, at 742-7719

CONGRATULATIONS TO OUR MEN AND WOMEN FOR THEIR HIGH SCORES

Steve Herbin 214 (week 26); Michael Neikrug 193 (week 26) and 220 (week 29); Jerry Schecterman 170 (week 29).

Ilene Gross 173 (week 26); Estelle Snyder 169 (week 27).

Our Winter Bowling League ended on April 5, 2016. The end of the season dinner was on April 14 at the Banana Boat.

Summer (Bowling for Fun) begins in mid-May. Please check Channel 63 for the exact date. Also, invite your friends and relatives to join us. You don't have to be a Majestic Isles resident to bowl with us either for fun or join our regular league.

Our Fall season begins on Sept. 6, 2016 and ends on April 4, 2017. There's no bowling on 10/4; 10/11 and 12/27. The cost is $7.50 per week.

We are looking for people who want to try their hand at bowling; people who want to get back into bowling; and former Majestic Isles bowlers.

I was a brand new bowler when I moved to MI three years ago. I was excited when I found out they had a bowling league. Now I can't wait for Tuesdays to go bowling.

Want to have fun, come and join us – you won't regret it.

Congratulations to the Tigers, our first place winners: Jerry Elefson, Ilene Gross, Natalie Herbin and Carol Stevens.

BE A GOOD NEIGHBOR

Please take only one copy of the newsletter for your own household. Even better, if you do not want to keep the issue, instead of throwing it in the recycle bin, bring it back to the clubhouse rack. We try not to run out, but sometimes we do and bringing back your used copy helps to ensure everyone who wants to can read the Majestic Isles News.

MAJESTIC ISLES PAP CORPS

By R. Stichel, M. Chermak and E. Rogg

Well, we must admit that our April membership appreciation lunch was, from what we were told, fabulous. We also gave out lottery tickets as a form of appreciation to our members who attended. And believe it or not, we had quite a few winners, although only small amounts. But a win is a win! Thanks again, as always, for supporting the Pap Cancer Research! We wish to take a minute to thank our servers, Dottie Caroff, Lois Richman, Francine Gitto, Fran Silling and Cynthia from the Bamboo Wok.

We are now planning our last meeting in May for the season. There will be scrumptious desserts prepared and bought by all our board members for your delight. We will serve coffee, tea or water whatever you prefer. Selma has arranged for a fabulous entertainer for your listening pleasure. If you like the music you can sing along for as always we have a fun afternoon. The cost is only $5.00 and where can you go today for dessert, coffee and entertainment for that price?

Come on out and help support cancer research and have a great time!

During the summer, on the evening of August 6th, we will be having our summer blast. You remember last year was our mock wedding and all the enjoyment in the clubhouse. We are planning something as great as that so we are thinking hard. We know it will be great. What a Board we are blessed with. Come on down and join us.

For our winter friends who are leaving, enjoy a healthy and happy summer (we hope you miss us as we will miss you). We hope all our year round friends enjoy a healthy and happy summer right here in Majestic Isles.

MAJESTIC ISLES TRAVEL CLUB

By Doris Davidoff

The Travel Club has some exciting news about upcoming plans. We have also added some people to our Planning Committee. The Committee members are Paul Mendelsohn and Doris David-off, Co-presidents; Francine Gitto, Treasurer; Sue Horowitz, Recording Secretary; and Dottie Caroff, Linda Kessler, Ellie Rogg, Gloria Steingart, and Al Traum, Members-at-large.

Our next trip is an overnight excursion featuring a Murder Mystery Dinner Train. This is a fun-filled experience that everyone should enjoy. The dates are May 11-12. There might still be a space for you on this trip, so check with us if you are interested.

We are planning a fall trip to Branson for September 26-30. We had a wonderfully successful trip there a few years ago, and many have requested that we go back again. Watch for further information on this trip.

We are investigating several other possibilities for future major trips. We are checking into Hawaii in April or May 2017. Our preliminary thinking is to include a couple of nights in Honolulu and a one-week cruise of the islands.

For Fall 2017, we are hoping to do another European river cruise with Grand Circle Cruises. This would be from Budapest to Bucharest. Grand Circle offers a wonderful cruise experience.

Our Planning Committee is busy researching what one-day excursions are available. If you know of ones that you've done or heard about, let one of our Committee know and they will check it out.

Stay tuned for more information on these and other trips as they are developed. Come to our quarterly meetings, watch Channel 63 and look for our flyers in the back lobby of the Clubhouse. Our next meeting will be on Sunday, May 22, at 11 a.m. The Travel Club is open to all Majestic Isles residents and their friends and relatives. Email dorisdav@aol.com to be added to our email list. There is no membership fee to belong to the Travel Club.

Majestic Isles Little Theater General Meeting, April 11, 2016

By Selma Friedman

During the business portion of our meeting, Ed Bloom was honored for years of dedication. He was presented with a beautiful plaque, designed by Francine Gitto, showing playbills of many of the past shows he has directed.

This evening was a treat for our ears and eyes, and our souls – a DVD of a Carnegie Hall concert performance of the Rodgers and Hammerstein classic hit “South Pacific” starring Reba McEntire and Brian Stokes Mitchel. The musical performances were superb, setting high standards throughout. I felt, at times, that it was a live performance and I had a front seat because our wonderful new screen fills up the stage front. Our new sound system worked beautifully. What a treat to see and hear this outstanding show.

I must comment on one number, “You’ve Got To Be Carefully Taught.” Hammerstein was pressured to cut this number because it was so controversial, but he refused. As I listened to the lyrics, I couldn’t help realizing we still have some cultures today preaching the same hatreds. Many thanks to Barbara Portnoff for arranging this magnificent presentation.

Some exciting plans for our paid-up membership – an Italian dinner treat, possibly Dec. 11, 2016. Details will be forthcoming. Sounds like fun.

Don’t miss our May 15 meeting when we will have a guest speakers from the Palm Beach Drama Works. It’s been a great year so far.

BOOK TALKS

By Judy Markowitz

Book Talks will meet Wednesday, May 18 at 2 p.m. in the clubhouse to discuss “House Rules” by Jody Picoult. Allan Topolosky will lead the discussion. Everyone is welcome to attend.

THE SINGLES CLUB

By Renee Stichel and Marilyn Cermack

By the time you read this, Passover will be over and the Singles are wishing everyone a sweet and healthy year. Our pot luck dinner was a tremendous success thanks to Doris Robin and Linda Kessler, plus all the ladies that cooked and bought the goodies. What a great crew we have! After eating we played various games, such as canasta, mah jong, and dominos. The evening was great fun.

At the end of May, we are going to Harid's Ballet with a lovely dinner at Kee Grill. (You can't beat their early bird). Again thanks Doris!

In June, we are looking into a show at Broward Stage Door Theatre and dinner in another fine restaurant. All we seem to be doing is eating, however what fun we have altogether.

We are looking into things for July and August and anyone having any good ideas, please call Doris, Renee or Marilyn. We are open to all suggestions.

Wishing you and your families a healthy and happy and not too hot summer!

WOMEN'S CLUB

By Joyce Milbauer, President

We had all been eagerly awaiting the Men and Women's Club Parent's Day Brunch at Broken Sound in Boca Raton on May 1st. By the time you receive this newsletter we hope you all will have enjoyed it very much!!

We had a very nice bus trip to Isle Casino in March sponsored by the Men's Club. We did some gambling and some of us actually won some money. Everyone had a nice lunch. There were several choices from a buffet, deli, omelet station, etc. Everyone enjoyed their day.

SAVE THE DATE: September 12 - We will be going to COSTUME WORLD in Boca Raton on Federal Highway. A delicious lunch is included! More details to come.

If you have not done so already, Please put your 2016 dues check of $15 in the Women's Club mailbox in the back lobby..

PICKLEBALL @ MAJESTIC ISLES

By Jerry Elefson

As you may already know, Majestic Isles has two pickleball courts. They were put down on Sunday, April 10 and on Wednesday, April 13. Lessons were given to thirteen new players. It was a wonderful feeling being on the courts with players that have never held a paddle in their hands. They had smiles on their faces and a willingness to learn. Carl Steinberg was the teacher and gave a two hour class to our new students. The class was free and we hope to have another one in early May. Keep an eye on channel 63 for dates of these classes.

We can only hope that this sport will continue to grow and make us a major player in the communities around us.

We play on Mondays and Wednesdays from 9 a.m. to whenever we finish. As the weather becomes warmer we'll probably start earlier. A list of players will be in the June issue so you can set up a match. Jerry Elefson, Ed Strauber and Jerry Ehrlich are always available to help you become a better player or answer any questions you have.

We'll see you on the courts.

SOCIAL CLUB

By Rita Dick

Unfortunately, the program originally scheduled for our April 3rd meeting was canceled due to illness. For the many residents who attended, they were pleasantly surprised to be watching a Woody Allen film with coffee and cake and doughnuts after the movie. All went home with a smile on their faces. We are pleased to announce that the Boynton Beach High School chorus will be returning for our general meeting on November 6.

The 2016 Series ended on a hilarious note with Modi keeping us in continuous laughter.

Payments are now being accepted for our 2017 series. Information is available in the back lobby.

Plans are in the works for our annual Memorial Day Party on Monday, May 30th. Kosher chicken will be available upon request. See flyer for more information and watch Channel 63.

On July 3 we will be having a dinner-movie night again this year. More details will follow.

Reservations are now being accepted for New Years. The price remains the same of $50p.p. for Social Club members and $55p.p. for non-members. Put checks in the Social Club box.

We wish all our residents a healthy and happy summer and look forward to our snowbirds returning.

THE MEN'S CLUB

By Joel Cohen

The Men's Club is looking into getting a bus to go down to the Marlin's Park for a baseball game. The game would more than likely be on a Thursday afternoon. The tickets are available to seniors 55 and older which should cover our group. The cost will be $20 - $22 depending on how many people are going.

Three dates are: June 22 (Atlanta Braves), July 27 (Phil. Phillies) and Aug. 10 (Giants).

We will have to know as soon as possible how many are going so please drop a note in Men's Club mailbox or call (742-9695) as soon as possible.

We will keep trying to get another casino trip sometime in May if we can.

We wish all our seasonal residents a wonderful summer and look forward to their return next season

MOVIES – MOVIES - MOVIES

8 p.m. at the clubhouse

With Blue-ray capability, our movies fill the screen with wonderfully clear pictures.

SATURDAY, MAY 7, BRIDGE OF SPIES

At the height of the Cold War in 1960, the downing of an American spy plane and the pilot's subsequent capture by the Soviets draws Brooklyn attorney James Donovan into the middle of an intense effort to secure the aviator's release.

SUNDAY, MAY 22, BROOKLYN

After emigrating from Ireland, Eilis Lacey readily adapts to the vastly different New York City, where she falls for a young Italian. But when tragedy pulls her back to her hometown, she finds her loyalties divided between two nations -- and two men.

SATURDAY, JUNE 11, SUFFRAGETTE

Dreaming of the right to vote, working-class Maud eagerly joins the early feminist movement. But when the peaceful protests of the suffragettes accomplish nothing, they're driven to more radical methods of effecting change.

NOTE: We show our films with closed captioning.

The film descriptions are taken from the Netflix website.
